Tammy Cooper

2021-2022 Passaic County Teacher of the Year

English Language Arts Teacher (9-12), Passaic High School, Passaic NJ

Tammy Cooper received her bachelor's degree in business administration from Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, North Carolina and received another bachelor's degree with a concentration in English literature from William Paterson University. She obtained her master's degree in school administration and supervision from Montclair State University. Tammy was the first African American English teacher at Passaic High School. She has not only been of service as an educator, but as a school administrator in several capacities on short- and long-term assignments. Tammy's commitment to education has been displayed in the growth of her students' state assessments in addition to teaching her students to be passionate lifelong learners. She has high expectations for all her students and holds them accountable while going above and beyond to support them with their needs in order to help them be successful. She believes that all students can make their dreams into realities with mentoring and strategic planning.

"As a County/State Teacher of the year Ambassador, my message both to educators and in the profession and general public would be "The Essence of Compassion...Resolve to be tender with the young, compassionate with aged, sympathetic with the striving, and tolerant with the weak and wrong...because sometime in your life you will have been all of these.

I would be passionate about this message as we begin to overcome the challenges of this global pandemic, COVID-19. This virus has had a huge impact on our society on all levels. As educators, we know that the world has and continue to face overwhelming challenges with the spread of the virus, dates rates, unemployment, housing, food government policies, mental health, education, and most importantly our priceless elders and children.

As we all embark upon reflecting on this global crisis, it is imperative that we are compassionate about helping support students' growth not only educationally, but through upliftment and encouragement of self."
