August 2019 Program Analyst Report

- Effective July 1, 2019 Joint Commission Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) requires that all patients in psychiatric hospitals and patients being evaluated or treated for behavioral health conditions as their primary reason for care in general hospitals be screened by Evidenced Based Suicide Risk Assessment Tools to assess suicide risk i.e. Columbia Suicide Risk Assessment Tool. A survey was conducted of the STCF's and diversion bed hospitals to learn what tool they are using. The results show that all are using a standardized tool, and most are using the Columbia Suicide Risk Assessment Tool. A recommendation was made that the results of the screening and assessment be included with the referral information provided to Centralized Admissions.

Columbia Suicide Severity Rating Scale

It's been determined that any staff person, regardless of educational degree, can complete a suicide risk screening provided that they have completed their agency training on the provision of the screening. This is consistent with the intention of the Columbia Suicide Severity Rating Scale. What is critical is that the agency have a policy, on which staff have been trained, operationalizing how staff will follow up with ensuring immediate linkage to a clinician (MA level or higher) if the screening is positive. Licensing is going to ask to see the policies, and review them for adequacy.
